CURRENT SITUATION/ WEATHER SUMMARY:

Mostly sunny to partly cloudy skies are expected today with high temperatures in the upper 80s to low 90s. Heat index values in the mid to upper 90s are possible away from the coast. Isolated showers approaching parts of the East Coast this morning will spread inland through the afternoon across southern Central Florida and South Florida. Severe weather is not anticipated but any thunderstorm that develops could contain brief heavy downpours and occasional lightning strikes. Most of the rain activity will dissipate after sunset, but a few showers may linger into the overnight hours across Southeast Florida and the Treasure Coast. Low temperatures will be in the upper 60s to low 70s inland and in the mid to upper 70s along the coast.

Significant and extensive river flooding continues across the Peninsula. 12 rivers and creeks are under River Flood Warnings through at least tomorrow. Most rivers have crested or are falling except portions of the St. Johns, the Withlacoochee, and the lower Suwannee, which are still rising. 4 Florida rivers remain in major flood stage. It will take several more days to weeks for the rivers to return to normal.

Lingering ocean swells and elevated wave action from Hurricane Jose is expected to continue along the Florida East Coast today.
